

MAKE YOUR OWN NUTCRACKER SNOW GLOBE

Step into the magic of the holiday season with a whimsical project that brings the enchanting world of The Nutcracker into your home—literally! With just a few simple supplies, you can craft your very own Nutcracker-themed snow globe, complete with glittering snow and festive flair. Whether you're making it as a keepsake or a charming gift, this delightful DIY will capture the spirit of the ballet and the sparkle of winter in one magical, shakeable scene. Ready to dive into a snow globe wonderland? Let's get started!

Materials

Clear plastic or glass jar

(mason jar or a store-bought snow globe kit)

Nutcracker figurine

(small enough to fit inside the jar)

Water-resistant glue or epoxy

Distilled water

Glycerin

(optional, to make the snow fall more slowly)

Glitter or fake snow

Decorative elements

(small Christmas trees, gifts, or ornaments)

Hot glue gun

(optional, for attaching decorations)

SAFETY FIRST!

Ask for help if you need to use hot glue.

Instructions

1. Prepare the Base

If your Nutcracker figurine isn't flat at the bottom, use water-resistant glue or a hot glue gun to attach it securely to the inside of the jar's lid (this will be the base). Add any additional decorations like mini trees or presents around the Nutcracker to enhance the festive scene.

2. Add the Snow

Sprinkle some glitter or fake snow into the jar. Make sure to choose a type of glitter that won't dissolve or clump together in the water. About a teaspoon of glitter should suffice, but you can adjust this based on the size of your jar.

3. Fill the Jar

Fill the jar almost to the top with distilled water. This will minimize air bubbles.

Optional: Add a few drops of glycerin. This thickens the water slightly and makes the glitter or snow fall more slowly when you shake the globe.

4. Secure the Lid

Carefully screw the lid with the Nutcracker and other decorations attached onto the jar. If necessary, use waterproof glue to ensure a tight seal so no water leaks out.

5. Shake and Test

Once the glue has dried, shake your Nutcracker snow globe to make sure everything is secure and watch the glitter fall around the Nutcracker.

6. Decorate the Outside (Optional)

If you want to make the base of your snow globe more festive, you can wrap it with ribbon, paint it, or add other decorative touches.

Enjoy your handmade Nutcracker snow globe as a beautiful holiday decoration!
